

Manassas Industrial School, Manassas, Va.

Leslie P. Hill, Principal

FOUNDED 1895. The school is undenominational. In 1908, 10 teachers and 100 students were enrolled. The annual expenses of $10,000 are provided for by subscriptions from interested friends in the North. The principal of the school writes, under date of April 15, 1909, saying: "We are only one of the small schools whose mission it is to carry industrial training into the less conspicuous places where need is great. We are now fourteen years old. Have eight pretty good buildings, with modern equipment; two hundred acres of timber land, and take care of 100 children, in round number, each year."

FARM SCENE, STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

William McKinley Normal and Industrial School, Alexandria, Va.

Rev. Simon P. M. Drew, Ph.D., President

THE William McKinley Normal and Industrial School was founded in 1894 by M. L. and R. B. Robinson. There were 5 teachers and 100 students in 1908. The annual expenses approximate $1,000. The school is supported by contributions from friends and the board of students. It was incorporated by the legislature of Virginia in 1898 as the John Hay Normal and Industrial School. With the approval of Hon. John Hay, the name was changed and the school incorporated, February 20, 1902, as the William McKinley Normal and Industrial School.

The object of the school is to give thorough elementary education and to train the students for trades that will prepare them for good citizenship and for the responsibilities of life.

The school is non-sectarian, but the students are required to attend Sunday-school and church services at least once each Sunday. Devotional exercises are held daily. There are 100,000 colored people residing within a radius of twenty miles.
